http://www.flowresidences.com.au/	White Open Spaces		Scrolling is unique compared to other curtain websites I've had a look at.	scrolling is cool, fair bit of FE code on this site, seems like too much of a stretch goal.
	Simple		Can have this scrolling feature/experience when we're showing the gallery(package/showcase)	Big pictures are nice, overlapping is nice, shapes of pictures is also good Inspiring
	The vibe and experience out of it client feels engaged when using it arched photo window
https://uniqwacollections.com.au/	Simple		Products index page is pretty simple yet elegant	I like the cursive font for the headings, we can use client's secondary font here with her light blue White open spaced structured		can consider copying the structure of the landing page on MVP	I like the square white outlined buttons they have on this site
https://st-barts.com.au/blogs/journal/la-bottega-di-brunella	Simple			I like the fade in of the products on the product page and I like the hover of the 2nd photo of the same product
				I like the large footer down the bottom https://armadillo-co.com/	Structured https://jamesdunloptextiles.com/brands/mokum	Fabric Samples	Products not 'designer' material	Could be a good starting point to render products(samples) but customised to have that "designer" touch	I like the simplicity of this site, makes it look so clean https://www.kerryjarmstrongart.com.au/available-works	Plain	Plain	Could be an MVP prospect since its 'too plain but ok'?	I like the big buttons
https://www.turinpalacehotel.com/en/hotel-turin/1-0.html	She stayed there and liked the place white spaces in the website			I like the white border on the main photo (that is about 20px in from the edge) Client wants a seamless flow where users can float through the site. A clean crisp, airy but with warmth user experience.
https://timmscurtainhouse.com.au/blog/how-to-measure-windows-for-curtains/		Boring Client wants curtains to be a lifestyle decision where rods would be pictured like jewellery. The whole process should be simple and not overwhelming http://www.flowresidences.com.au/	The best site so far in terms of experience Client's Cream of the crop https://curtainandblindco.com.au/			Best feature rich site.
			Liked the interactivity when customizing an order
